Tammo Buennemeyer to Join Greenhill in Frankfurt
Focused on the Communications, Media and Technology Sector

New York, December 8, 2014—Greenhill & Co., Inc. (NYSE: GHJ), a leading independent investment bank, announced today that Tammo Buennemeyer will join the Firm in Frankfurt as a Principal focused primarily on the Communications, Media and Technology (“CMT”) sector.

Mr. Buennemeyer has over 12 years of experience in the CMT sector, most recently as Managing Director and Head of Telecommunications, Media and Technology at IKB Deutsche Industriebank. Prior to that he spent 11 years with JP Morgan’s European Telecommunications and M&A teams. Throughout his career he has advised both corporations and financial sponsors on all aspects of corporate finance related to the CMT sector, with a particular focus on M&A.

Philip Meyer-Horn, head of Greenhill’s Frankfurt office, said, “We are delighted to have Tammo join Greenhill to strengthen not only our Frankfurt team, but also our global CMT effort. We are seeing an increasing need for conflict-free advice across the converged sectors and Tammo’s relationships and experience will help us to take advantage of this opportunity.”

Hartmut Ostrowski, Senior Advisor to Greenhill in Germany, said, “Greenhill already has a strong CMT franchise globally. The evolution of global CMT convergence presents exciting new opportunities and challenges for our clients. Tammo brings a wealth of content, and I look forward to working with him.”
